

Robins Way Trail

Following a 2019 landslide and the subsequent restoration work, Robin's Way Trail is open again!

If you are looking for a quick local hike, this trail a great option. From the trailhead on E. Historic Columbia River Hwy (next to the Harlow House) it's less than a mile uphill on a path that will take you past blackberry bushes, alders, and maples and over a short footbridge. At the top is a small picnic area with a table and interpretive sign about the trail.

An exit path leads to SE Beaver Creek Ct, but if you want to keep going, this trail connects to the Strawberry Meadows Greenway which runs along the top of the ridge parallel to Beaver Creek Lane. Another 10-minute walk will take you to the trailhead for the Beaver Creek Greenway that is just across the street from Weedin Park.

Please note that while this is a short hike, the trail is somewhat steep and uneven in parts so be
